A Change in Council Attitude

Core Business - Done Well

Shane Pleasance is passionate about the potential of Invercargill - as a place to live, raise children and prosper.

Shane is a 49-year-old husband and father of two. He is an experienced business owner, company director, registered nurse, drug and alcohol worker - manager and leader.

With an MBA (Master of Business Administration), he understands finance and planning.

He is a Member of the Institute of Directors (MinstD), and an experienced company director of not-for and for-profit organisations.

Rates in Invercargill are too high. We must reduce expenditure and debt.

The Council needs to focus on its core duties, and do these well. The people of Invercargill can make the city what it should be - great!

The City Council needs to get out of the way, and be more customer friendly.
